

WHITE BUTTE

the highest point in North Dakota

White Butte is the highest point in North Dakota, reaching an elevation of 3,506 feet. The route, open year-round, showcases the view of southwestern North Dakota.

DIRECTIONS

Traveling south on Highway 85 (from Belfield):

1. Turn south (left) onto 140th Ave SW before you reach Amidon - there is a sign here pointing to White Butte
2. Travel for 5 miles on 140th Ave SW
3. Turn west (right) onto 69th St and continue for 1 mile to the parking area (not designated)

Traveling north on Highway 85 (from Bowman):

1. Starting in Bowman, travel north on Highway 85 for about 12 miles
2. Turn east (right) onto 74th St SW and continue for 4 miles
3. Turn north (left) onto 140th Ave SW and continue straight for 5 miles
4. Turn west (left) onto 69th St and continue for 1 mile to the parking area (not designated)

OTHER THINGS TO NOTE

- When using Google Maps for navigation, type in "White Butte Trailhead" for the correct route
- You will have to walk along a rugged path approximately ½ mile from where you park to the start of the trailhead
- Please be respectful of your surroundings – the land by White Butte is all private property
- Be cautious during the summer months for rattlesnakes
- Be sure to sign the directory once you reach the top!

